

ON THE ROAD TO COACHELLA 2022

UNFORTUNATELY THIS MONTH'S COACHELLA MUSIC AND ARTS FESTIVAL WAS ANOTHER CASUALTY OF THE PANDEMIC. BUT THERE'S HOPE ON THE HORIZON FOR THE RETURN OF LIVE MUSIC AND FESTIVALS SOON. IN THE MEANTIME, GRAB A PAL AND A PEN AND PLAN YOUR CALIFORNIA TRIP WITH OUR HANDY FILL-IN-THE-BLANKS NEXT-LIBS.

Buzzing with _____ I hop in the car and pick up
(a feeling, noun form)

(list your best friends)

We race down the highway to make it to the festival in time. We _____ too hard and the car broke (verb, past tense)
 down immediately, so we had to start hitchhiking. A rickety _____ picked us up. Once we hit the (verb, past tense)
 U.S. border, the patrol agents made us _____ (verb)
 _____. It was so _____.

After a(n) _____ journey we finally roll up (adjective)
 to Coachella Valley. Checking into our _____ (type of lodging)
 we freshen up and get ready. I smear _____ (noun)
 on my face and squeeze into a(n) _____
(adjective)
 _____. We hop in/on a _____ and (item of clothing) (mode of transport) zoom to the first act.

COVID is FINALLY done with, so we don't have to wear _____ anymore. Now I can scream along (item of clothing)

 to _____, headbang to _____ and (music act) (music act)
 dance to _____ freely. _____
(music act) (friend you mentioned earlier)
 brought _____ snacks to keep us going—(adjective for food)
 every good festival crew has a snack bae.

At one point I take a trip to the Porta Potties, and guess who's in line behind me? None other than _____ (B-List Insta-
 _____. Unfortunately for them, I take the last gram influencer)
 _____ in the Porta Potty. Gross. Sorry!
(bathroom-related noun)

I race back to _____ with my friends.
(action verb)
 Travis Scott starts his set, and _____ (exclamation)
 — he's _____. The sun plunges below (verb, "-ing" ending)
 the horizon, casting a(n) _____ glow on (adjective)
 the valley.

Can't wait to do it all again tomorrow...

