

FUNNIES

NEXT-LIBS

ARE YOU READY TO ROCK?

LIVE MUSIC IS BACK. ARE YOU READY? DO YOU EVEN REMEMBER HOW TO GO TO A CONCERT? BE WITH STRANGERS? WHAT TO DO WITH YOUR HANDS? GRAB A FRIEND AND FILL OUT THIS NEXT LIBS TO SEE WHAT YOUR FIRST POST-PANDEMIC CONCERT HAS IN STORE FOR YOU!

Staring at the computer screen in disbelief, I see that tickets to see _____ live are now on sale.
(favourite music act)

Fingers tingling with _____,
(feeling, noun form)

I purchase tickets for my best pals _____,
(name of best friend 1)

_____ and myself before they sell out.
(name of best friend 2)

Fast forward two weeks: I'm squeezing into a(n) _____ in front (adjective for clothing) (item of clothing)

of the mirror—haven't worn these things/this thing in years! _____ calls me from the liquor (name of best friend 1)

store—they're picking up pre-drinks... but the place only has _____. Pray for me. We take a cou-(liquor that you have bad memories of) ple shots out of a(n) _____ and call an (random kitchen item)

Uber. Remember those? I toss a(n) _____
(noun, item)

and a(n) _____ into my bag and (noun, item)

we _____ out the door.
(action verb)

The driver pulls up in a sketchy _____.
(mode of transport)

I'm about to hop in when I realize I forgot my mask. Shit. I reach into my bag and grab a(n) _____ and (type of underwear)

strap it to my face. Perfect.

After a(n) _____ ride, we arrive at (adjective)

_____. We walk up to the bouncer and show (favourite concert venue)

him our IDs—except _____ forgot theirs.
(name of best friend 2)

Classic. _____ shows him their _____ (name of best friend 2) (your most prized childhood possession) instead. Miraculously, the bouncer lets us in.

We sneakily weave our way to the front just in time for the beat to drop, sending waves of _____ into (feeling, noun form)

the crowd. Before I even realize it, the music is sending vibrations through my _____ and I can't stop (body part)

smiling.

The roaring '20s are officially on, baby!

